PROFILE

Senior marketing and communications leader with 15+ years of experience helping complex organizations position products, services and large-scale projects, support commercial growth and translate business strategy into clear market-facing communication.

My background spans infrastructure, engineering, construction technology, SaaS, real estate development and public-sector-adjacent organizations. I have led positioning, communications, demand generation, sales enablement, digital marketing and cross-functional initiatives in environments where products are technically complex, sales cycles are long and trust, expertise and clarity drive commercial outcomes.

Experienced in building marketing functions, leading teams and agencies, launching brands, supporting business development and creating communication systems that connect strategy with measurable business results.
